

The material log entry is edited when the user clicks the “edit” button on the entry in the material log. They will then be redirected to the Material Log Editing page where they can change any aspect of the material entry. Upon clicking the “Save Changes” button, the database will update the information that it has on that material and reflect them on the material log page.